is a caterer for weddings, private parties, and businesses such as law firms and hospitals. It is therefore a retailer of prepared meals and various items (dishes, silverware, glasses, etc.) it sells or rents to its customers. See, e.g., KRS 139.200(1); 139.010(25) and (30); 139.485(1), (2)(f) and (3)(g).

At issue are the following:

1. Whether service charges should be excluded from 's gross receipts subject to sales tax.
2. Whether should be allowed a credit for sales tax paid to its vendor for the rental of items it in turn subsequently rented or leased to its customers.

Regarding the first issue, contends that separately stated service charges on the invoices to its customers should be excluded from its gross receipts subject to sales tax. cites the version of KRS 139.010(4)(c)4 effective for that portion of the audit period prior to August 1, 2009, which states:

The amount charged for labor or services rendered in installing or applying the property or services sold, provided the amount charged is separately stated on the invoice, bill of sale, or similar document given to the purchaser.

overlooks other relevant provisions of the definition of “gross receipts” subject to tax. These include the following provisions of KRS 139.010(4)(a) (effective until August 1, 2009), which stated in relevant part:

"Gross receipts" and "sales price" mean the total amount or consideration, including cash, credit, property, and services, for which tangible personal property or services are sold, leased, or rented, valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, without any deduction for any of the following:
1. The retailer's cost of the property sold;
2. The cost of the materials used, labor or service cost, interest, losses, all costs of transportation to the retailer, all taxes imposed on the retailer, or any other expense of the retailer;
3. Charges by the retailer for any services necessary to complete the sale;

(Emphasis added.) The same language is found in KRS 139.010(10)(a), which was effective August 1, 2009 and governed the balance of the audit period and stated as follows:

"Gross receipts" and "sales price" mean the total amount or consideration, including cash, credit, property, and services, for which tangible personal property digital property or services are sold, leased, or rented, valued in money, whether received in money or otherwise, without any deduction for any of the following:
1. The retailer’s cost of the tangible personal property or digital property sold;
2. The cost of the materials used, labor or service cost, interest, losses, all costs of transportation to the retailer, all taxes imposed on the retailer, or any other expense of the retailer;
3. Charges by the retailer for any services necessary to complete the sale:

(Emphasis added.) The charges in question were for services necessary for [REDACTED] to complete the sale of the prepared meals and not to “install” or “apply” tangible personal property.

[REDACTED]’s second contention is that the gross receipts from its rental of items to a customer in connection with an event called the [REDACTED] event should not have been included in its gross receipts because it paid sales tax for its rental of these items from its vendor, [REDACTED].

This argument is without merit because [REDACTED] paid sales tax in error to [REDACTED]. The sales tax applies to all “[r]etail sales of… [t]angible personal property… within this Commonwealth.” KRS 139.200(1). It was provided in KRS 139.010(18) until August 1, 2009 and in KRS 139.010(25), effective August 1, 2009, that “Retail sale” means any sale, lease, or rental for any purpose other than resale, sublease, or subrent.

(Emphasis added.) In other words, [REDACTED]’s rental of the items in question to [REDACTED] was not subject to tax. Instead, the tax was properly due on [REDACTED]’s subsequent rental of these items to its customer. The DOR has therefore correctly assessed tax to [REDACTED] for this rental.

For the reasons stated above the sales and use tax assessment totaling $ [REDACTED] (plus applicable interest) described above are legitimate liabilities of [REDACTED], LLC due the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

This letter is the final ruling of the Department of Revenue.

APPEAL

You may appeal this final ruling to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals pursuant to the provisions of KRS 131.110, KRS 131.340-131.365, 103 KAR 1:010 and 802 KAR 1:010.
