FINAL RULING

[Redacted] Inc ("[Redacted]") has protested the Department of Revenue’s ("Department") denial of multiple tangible personal property ad valorem tax refunds for the tax years represented January 1, 2007 through January 1, 2009 assessment dates in the amount of $[Redacted] A breakdown is shown in the chart below:

[Redacted] had been audited for its compliance with the ad valorem tax laws for the tax years represented by the January 1, 2007 through January 1, 2010 assessment dates.
protested the Department's denial of refunds for the 2007 through 2009 tax years. The reason for this denial was [redacted]'s failure to apply within two years of the payment of the ad valorem taxes owed for those years, as required by KRS 134.590(2).

KRS 134.590 allows the refund of overpayments only if application is made within two (2) years from the date of payment. Subsection 2 of this statute specifically states as follows:

(2) No state government agency shall authorize a refund unless each taxpayer individually applies for a refund within two (2) years from the date the taxpayer paid the tax. Each claim or application for a refund shall be in writing and state the specific grounds upon which it is based...

It is undisputed that [redacted] did not apply for a refund of the ad valorem taxes in question within two years of the payment of those taxes. Accordingly, its application or claim for the refund of their taxes was untimely under KRS 134.590(2). The Department therefore cannot make or issue the refunds sought by [redacted].

For the reasons stated above, the Department has properly denied the refund requested by [redacted]. [redacted]'s protest of that denial is hereby disallowed.

This letter is the final ruling of the Department.
